

Admiral John Ryan
President, Center for Creative Leadership

Former Chancellor, State University of New York

"For middle managers seeking roles as senior administrators, The College of Saint Rose master's degree in Higher Education Leadership and Administration will help you achieve your goal. This program not only helps unlock the full potential of up-and-coming leaders, it also performs a valuable service for higher education as a whole by preparing an exceptional pipeline of talent. If you're working in a challenging higher education role right now, the program will help you make the most of it - AND immerse you in the learning environment and relationships needed to take your leadership to a new and higher level."